

LET US CELEBRATE THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

DIXON CITIZENS WILL DO THEIR SHARE IN DOING HONOR TO BIRTH OF NATION.

MANY TO VISIT AMBOY SATURDAY

Ball Games at Lincoln Park Will Draw Hundreds—Picnics Will Be Held in the Parks.

Tomorrow is that one big day—the grand old Fourth of July, that day when the youngsters get out of bed before sunrise and by his noisy fire cracker and well trained vocal organs gets all his neighbors out also. On this day let the American flag, a small one if you have no other, fly from the porch of the home.

How much better it would be if every laboring man could take the day off and enjoy himself in some manner with the members of his family. Because the day falls on Saturday this year it makes it somewhat difficult for the business houses to close all day, but how much better it would be if all business could be suspended for the day and let the proprietor and the clerk make the most of the day. But, anyway, let us celebrate the day in part at least, in a suitable manner.

On to Amboy. It is quite certain that many of our citizens will go to Amboy to celebrate. The well known little burg will pull off a program that will be a credit to the place. The program tells us that there will be something doing every minute. Those who have spent one Fourth at Amboy want to go again.

The candidate for office will be in Amboy. His friends will be there and together there will be some wire pulling done. Men will be "seen" and the plans of campaign will be perfected. All this will be done while the balloons soars in the air, while horses run around the track, while the band plays a concert and while the enthusiastic "stand men" cry out their wares.

The Ball Games. Don't forget that there will be two ball games at Lincoln Park Saturday afternoon. It is needless to say that a large crowd will witness the games.

At the Parks. The parks, Assembly and Lowell, will attract hundreds of people, not only from the city but from the adjoining country. The owners of private boats will take advantage of the day to sail the river. Old Grandy will get the usual holiday crowd and the hotels will no doubt do a rushing business, noon and evening.

At many of the homes fireworks will be the program for Saturday evening, and the fire ladders will be ever watchful of the stry spark. Now, if the weather man is onto his job, there is not the least bit of doubt but that the grand old day will be properly kept, and everyone in Dixon will do a little toward celebrating the birth of the greatest nation on earth.

Let the eagle scream on Saturday from early morn till late at night. The Fourth of July is the one big day of all the year.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN IS DEAD ENGLAND LOSES A GREAT MAN

(Associated Press.) London, July 3.—Joseph Chamberlain died here last night.

The Right Honorable Joseph Chamberlain was the pioneer in Great Britain of tariff reform, and the great advocate of Imperialism. For 38 years, with a brief intermission, he represented Birmingham in Parliament. In 1896 his career of stormy activities was ended by a stroke of paralysis. The blow fell when he was in the midst of a strenuous campaign for the establishment of a protective tariff with reference to the British colonies, and just after his constituents had

WILL HOLD HEIDENREICH FUNERAL SATURDAY MORNING

The remains of Maurice Heidenreich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Heidenreich of Portland, Ore., will arrive in Dixon at 8:05 o'clock tomorrow morning and will be taken to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hugnet, 121 Monroe ave., where short funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock. At 10 o'clock services will be held at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Rev. Foley officiating, and burial will take place at Oakwood cemetery.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE STARTS CHOLERA CAMPAIGN

Washington, July 3.—The department of Agriculture started its 1914 campaign against hog cholera. Its representatives will co-operate with state authorities. The appropriation available is $500,000.

GRUVER OF CHICAGO PITCHES FOR STARS

TOMORROW MORNING IN THE LEAGUE GAME AT LINCOLN PARK.

LOOK FOR PITCHERS BATTLE

Other Slab Artists Will Be Huber, Boers and Guhl—Fans Enthusiastic Over Contest.

Fans inform us that the baseball games to be pulled off at Lincoln park tomorrow will be fast and very snappy.

In the morning game Huber of the I. N. U. will appear against Gruver of the Stars. Huber needs no introduction to league fans but Gruver is possibly not so well known. Gruver has been pitching fast ball with the New Trier High School of Winnetka, near Chicago. This school classes well in suburban sport circles, especially the suburban league composed of aggregations such as Oak Park and Kenilworth. Gruver pitched against Loyola college in two games in which they broke even with that fast organization, Gruver winning his game.

Afternoon Games. One afternoon game will feature Boers and Guhl. Boers has been pitching good ball for the Brunswicks and Guhl, who came from Freeport, has also shown great ability on the slab.

These games will possibly develop into regular pitchers' battles as each of the boys mentioned is the real thing at decorating the plate with the elusive ones.

The morning game will be called at 10:30 and the afternoon contest at 3 o'clock. That there will be "some" crowds on hand is assured. The fact that all four teams of the league are now in for first place will make the supporters of every organization anxious to see their favorites cop for after tomorrow and Sunday's contests the tie will be broken.

Miss Florence I. Dustman went to Freeport this afternoon to spend the week-end with relatives and friends.

WILL REORGANIZE G. & E. I. COMPANY

BILL OF COMPLAINT IS FILED IN CHICAGO TODAY—NCESSARY FORMALITY.

(Associated Press.)

Chicago, July 3.—Further steps in the reorganization of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad were taken today when the Bankers Trust Company of New York, accused the trustee of refunding shares of the stock, and filed a bill of complaint. The move is not hostile to the stockholders although requests for the sale of the road has been made so as to satisfy holders of shares and is a necessary formality in connection with reorganization. A receiver for the property was appointed a year ago.

FARMER KILLS ROBBER IN FIERCE FIGHT

OLD COUPEE TELL DRAMATIC STORY OF BATTLE WITH MAN IN NIGHT.

WIFE COMES TO RESCUE

Fight Occurred at Home of Joseph Grimwood, Near Yorkville, Illinois.

(By Associated Press.)

Yorkville, Ill., July 3.—A dramatic story of a fight to death with a masked robber in their home early today is told by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grimwood, an aged couple, who live on a farm near here. Before Mrs. Grimwood got into the fight her husband and the robber, the farmer armed with a club and the robber with an ice pick, circled around in the dark feeling for each other and lunging and striking, and occasionally landing their blows. Finally one of Grimwood's swings felled the robber. Mrs. Grimwood was awakened by the commotion, rushed from the bed room, leaped upon the robber and seized his throat while her husband got up from the floor where he had fallen with the robber. He got a light and went after a rope to bind the man. The robber died just as Grimwood came back, so the woman said. Mrs. Grimwood is a large, powerful woman and is 65 years of age. The robber apparently is about 55, smooth shaven and wore a new suit of clothes. In one of the pockets was a receipt from a department store in Chicago for a new suit of clothes. The receipt bore the name of William Davis. There were also in the pockets slips showing apparently that he had made a profit of $5,000 on the Chicago board of trade. The police believe the clothing was stolen and that the papers are those of another man.

HENRY W. DEMISON DIES TODAY AT TOKIO

WAS LEGAL ADVISOR AT JAPANESE FOREIGN OFFICE SINCE 1880.

(Associated Press.)

Tokio, July 3.—Henry Willard Demison, legal advisor at the Japanese foreign office since 1880, died today of paralysis. He was born in Vermont in 1848. The announcement of his death was withheld for several hours, according to custom, to permit the Emperor to confer decoration on the dead man. An eulogistic statement has been issued from the foreign office in which Demison is hailed as one of the greatest benefactors in Japan. Demison's advice was asked in connection with every phase in diplomatic relations with foreign countries.

HARMON DRAINAGE WILL BE TAKEN UP

TO SUPREME COURT, BY DECISION AT MEETING LAST NIGHT.

At a meeting of the property owners of the Union drainage district, No. 1, last evening at Harmon it was decided to appeal their case involving the payment of delinquent taxes, to the supreme court.

The case was tried recently in the county court here. Litigation grew out of the assessment of a special tax two years ago for the purpose of widening the drainage ditches in that vicinity. This assessment was perfectly legal and satisfactory and amounted to $11,000. However, the commissioners decided to extend the ditches and dug new ditches for a mile and a half, using all the money specified for enlarging the old ditches. Thus it was necessary to levy another tax, for $4,000, to complete the work that should have been accomplished with the funds provided by the first assessment. This second tax the people refused to pay claiming that the commissioners were not authorized to extend the ditches. The matter was taken before Judge Scott in the county court at its last session and he decided that, while the townships could not be held responsible for the sum due, the residents of the affected district were so held and so were assessed the amount according to a scale of value received from the so called improvements. This in the case of some farmers amounted to as much as $375 and those involved think themselves justified in appealing the case, which action was decided upon by the meeting presided over by Attorney Brooks last evening.

BELOVED CATHOLIC CLERGYMAN RETIRES

REV. H. M. FERGERS TO SPEND REST OF LIFE IN PEACE AND QUIET—WELL KNOWN IN DIXON.

AT STERLING OVER 30 YEARS

His Life There Demonstrated a True and Revered Spirit of Christianity

Rev. H. M. Fergers, who for more than thirty years has been pastor of the church of the Sacred Heart of Sterling, during which time he has made countless friends in Dixon, has tendered his resignation from the priesthood to Bishop Muldoon, and he will spend the remainder of his life in quiet and ease with his brother, Dr. Fergers, of McHenry.

Rev. Fergers is well known in this city. He has visited at the home of Father Foley here many times, and during these visits and his appearances here as an orator, at numerous of Catholic gatherings he has endeared himself to many, who while regretting his departure from the priesthood, will unite in their wishes for unbounded happiness for him in the future.

His retirement is made necessary by his age and failing health, and is at the advice of his physician. Father Fergers, is in his seventy-second year, and for 45 years he has been actively engaged in the ministry, trying at all times to be a true administrator to his people. That he has succeeded is evidenced by the love for him by all of the people of Sterling and vicinity—people of his own faith and non-Catholics as well.

He was ordained January 29, 1869 and since Feb. 15, 1885, he has been in charge of the Sacred Heart parish. A little wooden building, later utilized as the first parochial school in Sterling, was at the time of his coming to the church. But Father Fergers' bigness of heart and mind soon had their effect and his congregation steadily grew in faith and prosperity, a new, handsome brick church replaced the wooden structure, and the people of his community continued to grow in regard and love for him.

People of all faiths, honor and revere the talented gentleman. He has never in the memory of any man uttered an unkind word against any who may have dissented with his beliefs and constant endeavors have been to make religion a pleasure and not a burden.

He will leave Sterling, soon to go to McHenry, where he will make his home with his brother, who is a physician, and, together they will spend their winters in some clime of Florida or California, returning to Illinois for the summers. In the words of a very dear friend, "the sunset of his life should be most pleasant. Father, mother, brothers and sisters and the dear friendships of his younger days will be conjured up from the happy past," and his days will be restful in his knowledge that his life has been spent in faithful service, productive of great good, and that he has earned the reward. "Well done."

His farewell to his people and to the people of Sterling and Rock Falls, is characteristic of the man: eloquent, beautiful with the love for God and his fellow men evident in every thought, and it will touch a responsive chord of "God bless you and peace be with you" in the hearts of his countless true friends. His farewell is:

His Farewell.

On the eve of my departure from Sterling, where I spent the last, nearly thirty years of my life as pastor of Sacred Heart church, I wish in this public manner, to say adieu to my many friends in, and around Sterling and Rock Falls.

In taking this step, fully understood and sanctioned by the Right Reverend Bishop, I am guided by the advice of my physicians, and nearest friends; realizing more than ever that impaired health, not to speak of advanced years, will make periodical sojourns in the more balmy climate of Southern California or Florida, not only desirable, but almost imperative.

It is a genuine pleasure for me to be able to say that, during this long period of time, I was always treated with uniform kindness, courtesy, and respect, by all classes of people.

ELKS ARRANGE ANNUAL CLAM BAKE

EVENT THIS YEAR WILL BE BIGGER THAN PREVIOUS BAKES.

TO BE HELD ON LABOR DAY

Primaries Will Follow Clam Bake—One Day So Politicians Will All Be Present.

The House committee of the Dixon lodge B. P. O. E., of which Charles E. Miller is acting chairman, has commenced to make the arrangements for the annual Clam Bake and New England Barbecue, which will be given here on the usual date, Labor day. The committee faces a big task to make the coming event, what they promise it shall be, "bigger and better than ever," but those who know Mr. Miller and his able assistants also know that their promise will be kept.

In addition to the increased number of attractions which will be necessary this year, the committee will face the necessity of taking care of more people than have ever gathered at such an affair in this vicinity. The primaries will follow the clam bake one day, and for that reason every politician in Lee county may be expected to be present and take an active part in the "doings." In addition, the fame of the Dixon Elks' clam bakes has spread all over northern Illinois, and each year finds requests from more and more people from other cities asking for information on the big event.

OFFICER HAMILTON SHOOTS IRA LOUGH

MEN AGREE SHOOTING, WHICH OCCURRED LAST NIGHT, WAS ACCIDENTAL.

BULLET ENTERS LEFT ELBOW

Men Were Riding in an Automobile Chasing a Violator of Ordinance.

Ira Lough was shot in the left elbow at about 10 o'clock Thursday evening by Motorcycle Policeman C. W. Hamilton, while driving his automobile on Second street. That the shooting was accidental is agreed by both Lough and the policeman.

According to Officer Hamilton he was standing near the intersection of Second street and Hennepin avenue when some speeders went west in an auto. In an effort to get them he asked Mr. Lough to follow them in his automobile and when Lough acquiesced the officer jumped into the rear seat. He says they followed the speeders west on Second street. While they were pursuing the auto Hamilton says his revolver, a 32 calibre H. & A. short-barreled weapon, in his right hip pocket, pressed into his hip in such a manner as to cause him pain, and he stood up in the car and changed the position of the revolver.

Accidental Discharge. When he sat down again, he says the weapon was accidentally discharged, the bullet passing through his trousers and into Lough's left elbow. Lough was seated directly in front of him and the auto is a left-hand drive car.

When the bullet struck Lough he stopped the car, which was then, according to the officer, west of the Second street arch. In a few minutes they came back up town and Lough went to a physician's office where the wound was dressed.

Mr. William Beach will sing Sunday evening, at the Congregational church.

COMPTON

Compton, June 30.—The Franklin Grove camp meeting boosters of sixteen automobiles arrived in Compton Friday. One of the leading men made a short speech, giving the Compton people a cordial invitation to attend the camp meeting. The land accompanied them and favored the onlookers with a couple of musical selections, after which they proceeded to the next town. In our estimation this was an ideal Boosters' club and would receive a hearty welcome in our town any old time.

The King's Daughters met with Hope Abel and Amy Eddy led the meeting. Six were present.

Miss Gladys Carnahan is visiting in Rockford.

The Compton Chautauque will begin July 3rd and last six days. The chautauque comes but once a year, so we must not neglect this one opportunity to attend. If you are interested in the higher ideals of life and living and have a pride in your home industries you will attend the home chautauque. Each afternoon the exercises begin and in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Compton Chautauque Booster club of seven autos visited the following towns and cities: Pawpaw, Lee, Steward, Rochelle, Ashton, Franklin Grove, Lee Center, Amboy, Shaw and West Brooklyn one day last week, arriving home in good season with few casualties.

The Lutheran church six miles to the south of this city celebrated its fifteenth anniversary on last Sunday, June 28th, with appropriate services. Rev. John Jeanner of Muscatine, Ia., spoke in the morning, Decker of Clinton, Va., of Mendota and Kurtz of Earlville being the afternoon speakers and Ramona of West Burlington, Iowa, spoke in the evening on the following subject, "Hitherto Hath the Lord Helped Us." It was estimated that there were about 500 in attendance. A bountiful supper was served to all by the ladies of the church. Several from here attended and report the meetings very interesting and inspiring.

Wm. Myrtle was quite seriously injured last Saturday while riding his horse. He fell off the scaffold upon which he stood.

Hester Merriam has returned from a week's visit in the country.

NELSON

Nelson, July 1.—Mrs. Clarence Switzer and daughter Edna spent an afternoon last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bohlken and children spent the week end with the John and J. A. Bohlken families.

Mrs. R. D. Mealey arrived this week from Ireland. At present Mr. and Mrs. Mealey are located at the home of Mrs. T. Nelson.

Mrs. G. G. Stewart spent a few days in Sterling.

The Charles Barton family, Miss Kate Ortigieser and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Agnew and son London were the guests at the John Ortigieser home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Janssen were Sunday visitors at the home of Claude Switzer.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coxwell and daughters Iola and Gertrude spent Friday with Mrs. Mary Doynton of Gap Grove, who is ill but is much improved.

The Ladies Aid society was royally entertained by Mrs. H. L. McKinstry on Wednesday, July 1, at her cottage at Assembly park. A bountiful dinner was served shortly after noon, the hostess supplying the desert, ice cream. Forty were present and thoroughly enjoyed the day under the delightful shade trees on the banks of the beautiful Rock river.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were the guests Sunday of relatives.

JACK GRANEY

Red McGhee says:

John Gladstone Grane!—Some name, mates. The prex of our United States could well be proud of such. But Jack ain't strong on politics. The diamond's where he pulls his tricks with Spalding's one-stick crutch. The printers score his highbrow name in settin' box scores of the game an' cut the front away. But that don't bother J. C. G.—N!t! Never. He's no readin' gee. He jus' was born to play.

Outfieldin' for the luckless Naps, he turns in two an' three-base taps as reg'lar as the clock. An' it ain't any fault of his that they can't work the follow biz to add runs to their stock. I like to watch him on defense. His fielding stride is sure immense. It's worth your ol' six bits. His legs are fat an' look like bows an' like a kangaroo he goes out cuttin' down base-hits.

Jack used to pitch some years ago. His ol' south wing's still there to show he must have had some speed. They don't stretch hits that go to Jack. They're hardly out there when they're back. "Don't hold 'em!"—that's Jack's creed. An' he ain't no slow-goin' skate at naffin' runners at the plate—for all-round stuff he's brainy. A brilliant comet?—Star?—Well, no. The game would be the loser, though, without J. Gladstone Grane!.

DRY LID CRAMPED ON NAVY

Secretary Daniels' Order Is Now In Effect.

Washington, July 3.—The American navy is dry. Secretary Daniels' order abolishing the "wine mess" for the officers and any form of intoxicants for officers and men went into effect at midnight.

The order was followed out to the letter according to reports received at the capital. The passing of John Barleycorn was an event of interest, particularly on the ships of the Atlantic fleet in Mexican waters. At Vera Cruz many farewell parties were held on the big battleships. All made merry while they could. However, when midnight came there was an end to drinking.

In its 18th Year.

With the coming of July 1st, 1914, the banking institution in our town started by its present proprietor, Henry F. Gehant, in 1897, entered its 18th year. Throughout all these years this bank, known today as the Henry F. Gehant Banking company, has enjoyed a gradual and splendid growth which is attested by its large resources and the total of its deposits.

During its first few years of existence Mr. Gehant's bank was something new in a small village and it needed courage on the part of the founder to undertake the building up of such an institution and to educate the people of the vicinity to the fact that they could secure good, sound banking facilities in their home town.

It is needless for us to say that his efforts have been crowned with success long ago and that today his banking company stands as one of the needed establishments in our town. It provides the community with a depository for their savings, for their checking accounts, and other funds, whether they be large or small. It furnishes money to those worthy of its credit. It provides for its patrons in matters of insurance by conducting a first class general insurance agency. It always accommodates its people by assisting them in real estate transfer, drawing up legal papers, rendering advice and securing loans. In brief, "its purpose is to make the bank a material benefit to the community in general and its patrons in particular." The advantages offered are always a convenience and benefit to its patrons. At times its statements show deposits nearing the $200,000 mark and loans and discounts of $150,000. These figures alone show the great good and success of the institution to this community. The bank was established upon a firm and sound financial basis at the very outset and as a result it has always successfully withstood the attacks caused by money panics or hard times in our country. Its seventeen years of history making bespeak well for its success during the future.

AMBOY

Amboy, July 1.—Edward Burns accompanied his sister Elizabeth to Kansas City Sunday evening for a visit of a month. Mr. Burns is sales agent for a Wisconsin furniture company.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Svishner entertained their sons Calvin of Washington and Homer of Chicago.

Paul Niles of Freeport was here on Sunday.

Augustus Baird died at the county home June 19 at the age of 74 years. He was buried at Prairie Repose cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hogan of Freeport were here last week.

Mrs. W. Gray, who resides two miles west of town, is seriously ill at present.

The Amboy band is having rehearsals each week and is making rapid progress. Let us hope for a weekly street concert during the summer.

Married at Riverton, Washington, June 13, Miss Hannah Dougherty and John F. Conahan. They will live on a ranch at Riverton. Mr. Conahan was formerly of Amboy, where he was a popular auctioneer.

Mrs. H. Appleton spent the week in Dixon and Rock Falls.

Work is started on the new cannery factory, near the Burlington depot. The building will be quite an addition to that part of town. The factory will give employment to quite a number of people during the canning season, and the factory will make a specialty of tomatoes.

Mrs. R. G. Thome died at her home on East Main street Tuesday night after a long illness. She never regained her strength since last fall when she fell and broke her hip, owing to her advanced age, which made recovery impossible. Mrs. Thome leaves her husband and two sons, Dr. James Thome of Wisconsin and Lawrence of Sterling.

The merry go round arrived here today to make glad the hearts of the children for the glorious Fourth.

Miss Emily Lewis of Chicago is spending her vacation at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. George Tennant.

The improvements on the Kaufman McBride drug store are about completed, making it one of the most up to date store here.

Miss Mary Cullen spent a few days last week in Freeport.

Andrew Barlow has about completed a fine new residence for Chris Ulrich at Lee Center.

Amboy, Ill.—Miss Ruby Leavens and Dr. Clarence Sauer were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in Lee Center Wednesday, June 24. Mrs. Sauer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Leavens. She was a very successful teacher and prominent in social affairs. Dr. Sauer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sauer of Amboy and has just completed a course of dentistry in Chicago. They will make their home in Amboy for the present.

Mrs. Agnes Melno and daughter of Sycamore are the guests of Miss Margaret Hopkins, superintendent of the local hospital.

Homer Rosier, I. C. engineer, has recovered from his recent illness.

Bernard Ahern has recovered from a severe case of blood poisoning in his foot. He has resumed work in the creamery.

Mrs. Korn of Lee Center is a patient at the hospital.

Byron Treadwell of Amboy and Miss Alice A. Mosher of Somanauk were married at the home of a sister of the bride, Mrs. Charles Reniff, on Wednesday evening, June 24. Rev. J. W. George officiating.

Miss Mary Tennant spent a week in Chicago.

SENSATIONS IN
BAILEY SLAYINGDoctor Carman Admits His Wife
Thrashed Woman in Office.

STORY OF TEAMSTER PUZZLES

Statement of Dr. Carman That Mrs. Carman Had Retired When Fatal Shot Was Fired Is Disputed—Was Seen Just Before and Just Following Tragedy.

Freeport, N. Y., July 2.—Several startling features in the tragedy in which Mrs. Louise Bailey of Hempstead was shot and killed in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman have become public.

Dr. Carman admitted to newspaper men that his wife had burst into his office recently while he was entertaining a woman patient, and had created a scene, even going so far as to slap the patient's face and pull her hair. The doctor said that the full story would come out tomorrow morning at the inquest.

Others Witnessed Tragedy.

There were two women and two men in the anteroom of the doctor's office when the shot was fired through the window. One of these men, George Golden, says that a woman member of the doctor's household whom he thought to be Mrs. Edwin Carman, was fully dressed in white and was in the front of the house, presumably on the porch, ten minutes before the murder. The authorities had expressed their firm belief in the story they said Mrs. Carman told that she was lying on her bed, in her night robe, when the shot was fired.

The only other woman member of the doctor's household, Mrs. Ida Powell, sister of Mrs. Carman, was also upstairs when the shot was fired, and verified Mrs. Carman's presence there, District Attorney Lewis J. Smith said.

Teamster Tells Startling Story.

Golden is forty years old, a teamster living in Baldwin. There are great discrepancies in the story he tells and the story of Dr. Carman. He said that he had ridden over to the doctor's house on his bicycle to get some medicine for his mother and arrived there at about 7:30.

"The woman, whom I believe is Mrs. Carman, opened the door for me," he said. "She is fairly tall and stout. (This might be either Mrs. Powell or Mrs. Carman, and Golden was not sure which). There were two women, Mrs. Hazel Combs and another woman I don't know in the waiting room, and Archie Post. Mrs. Bailey was in the doctor's office.

"I sat there about ten minutes. The woman whom I think is Mrs. Carman was sitting in the front of the house. Then she went through the hallway to the kitchen, and came back again towards the front of the house. She might have gone up stairs, but a moment or two later I heard her tell Dr. Carman's daughter, who was playing the piano, to stop it, and the voice came from the piazza outside.

"I sat near the window, which was open, and no one went through the grounds from the street while I was there. Then the shot was fired. This was at about 7:45."

Just after the shooting, he says, the same woman in white who had told the doctor's daughter to quit playing came into the doctor's office.

Says Story Is Frameup to Aid Stringer Candidacy.

Chicago, July 3.—The Rev. Hiram Vrooman, brother of Carl Schurz Vrooman of Bloomington, gave out this typewritten statement denying reports that Carl S. Vrooman had withdrawn from the senatorial race in favor of Kent E. Keller of Ava:

"The statements which appeared that Carl Vrooman had withdrawn from the senatorial race in favor of Kent Keller are not only false but preposterous. Mr. Vrooman has stated repeatedly during the past six months that he would retire in favor of any genuine Progressive candidate who should receive the support of Secretary Bryan, Governor Dunne and Mayor Harrison.

"These unauthorized and false announcements that Mr. Vrooman has already withdrawn from Keller, look to me like a frame-up with the object of getting Mr. Vrooman out for Mr. Keller, to give Governor Dunne a chance to support Stringer, for whom my brother never would withdraw, and then to have Mr. Keller fall in line."

JINGLE IS HEARD TO WALES

Heirs in Great Britain Attack Legality of Rich Man's Marriage.

Jacksonville, Ill., July 3.—Notice was filed in the Morgan county court that depositions will be taken Aug. 31 in Shrewsbury, Wales, with reference to the settlement of the Lewellyn Davies estate. Three local attorneys will go to Wales to be present at the hearing which involves property rights of $80,000.

Davies was a wealthy farmer, who died in November, 1912, in this county. It subsequently developed that he had been married three times, and an effort is being made by parties in Wales to show that they are the lawful heirs and that there was never a divorce from the first wife.

Another Mysterious Chap.

Springfield, Ill., July 3.—What Gottlieb G. David, 1024 North Fourteenth street, planned to do with 400 copies of a fire insurance policy he had previously obtained from Ward G. Murray in this city, is a puzzle which is puzzling the state fire marshal. David secured a policy for $200 on his clothing and then, it is said, went to Auburn, where he had the copies printed.

Illinois Joins War on Rats.

Springfield, Ill., July 3.—Health officers along the Mississippi, Ohio, Wabash and Illinois rivers have been notified by the Illinois state board of health to start a war to exterminate rats, the theory being that the rodents are carriers of the plague which appeared recently at New Orleans.

Never Mind the Supper Now.

Mount Sterling, Ill., July 3.—Emmett Shoopman and Miss Hazel Watkins, whose wedding was blocked by refusal of a license, owing to the young woman's age, eloped to Hannibal, Mo., and were married. The wedding supper was waiting them when the county clerk halted the wedding here.

Settle Grudge; One Shot.

LYON'S SHORT STORY

By FRANK CONDON.

(Copyright.)
We were sitting around the big, shining table in the famous billiard-room off Broadway. Scores of men were clicking ivory balls within hearing, and Lyon, the man who writes, was talking about something or other. There sat at the table, beside Lyon, Chick Miller, the general advertising man; Bill Miller, the street-car advertising man; Frank Walton, the composer, and the transmitter of this mystery.

"I'll tell you a story," said Lyon, without preface. "You can write it or not. It comes straight from a diamond salesman."

"Go ahead," rejoined the crowd in a critical tone.
"This diamond salesman," Lyon continued, "was brought up with Gibboney's. You know Gibboney's. Every diamond ring in the world tries to pretend that it once came from Gibboney's."

"Well, this boy—mind you, his name is Ellis—told me the story himself, having witnessed it with his own eyes. On a sunny afternoon a motor-car drives up to the front door and out steps a dignified woman of great wealth, judging from her appearance."

"Her demands were simple. She wanted to select a diamond or two, and Ellis brought forth a tray of velvet containing a dozen or more sparklers. Not a stone in the tray was worth less than a thousand, but the dowager duchess looked them over somewhat haughtily and pronounced it as her opinion that they were a somewhat inferior cluster of gems."

"With a sigh of disappointment he prepared to put the tray back in the case, and, in doing so, he noticed that one of the diamonds was missing."

"Ellis wriggled his left ear, which is the house signal summoning the head detective, and in a few moments a conference began which included young Ellis, the detective, and the strange lady in black silk."

"Ellis explained the circumstances briefly, being withered meanwhile by the glances of the outraged queen. There were eighteen expensive and unset diamonds in the tray before the lady pawed them over, and at the conclusion of her examination there were seventeen."

"Therefore, it followed that she must have been perniciously active. The strange lady called young Ellis a low person and froze him into a state of speechlessness; but it is somewhat difficult to freeze a head detective at Gibboney's. This latter person, who was of Irish descent, and whose jaw protruded some distance, decided that the society leader must be searched, and, without further formalities, she was led away to the ladies' searching department."

"In an hour the lady searchers opened the door and announced to the officials that if the lady had a diamond about her it must be buried in her heart."

"There was nothing to do but release the strange lady in black silk. Gibboney Company sent down-town to a detective agency for a man. Detective Ratty listened gravely, and finally gave orders."

"He explained that no person should be permitted to enter the aisle upon which the case of jewels was located."

"For three days nothing happened. Detective Ratty stood guard, in company with the head store detective. On the third day a dapper young man in a light blue suit, wearing gray spats and carrying a white cane, pushed open the swinging door and entered. He walked straight down the forbidden aisle and paused to converse with young Ellis."

"Five minutes later Detective Ratty walked up to the newcomer, placed his hand on his shoulder, and arrested him. The stranger was instantly searched, and immediately the expensive diamond was found!"

"Now!" said Lyon, pausing and casting a triumphant glance upon the group of cynical listeners, "how did the detective know that this strange young man had the diamond?"

All of the crowd, except Chick Miller, looked mystified and inquiring. During the latter part of Lyon's sketchy recital Chick Miller had picked up an evening newspaper and had scribbled upon the margin two words in pencil writing. He tore off the bit of margin and handed it to Frank Walton, who read it uncomprehendingly.

"You don't know, so it's a story," Lyon went on, after a slight pause. "The woman in the black silk lifted the diamond, rolled it up in a piece of gum she had been chewing, and stuck it under the jewelry-case. The young man had come to retrieve the piece of gum and its valuable kernel. Is that a story or not?"

Frank Walton held up the piece of paper on which Chick Miller had scribbled.

"Chewing gum," he read.
"Certainly," Chick Miller said. "I knew the answer when you got half-way through the story. The point is, I read that same thing a long time ago, and to prove it I wrote down the answer and handed it to Frank Walton."

"But this man Ellis told me that it happened to him," Lyon argued.

"And I tell you I read it somewhere," Chick Miller answered.

"Well," Lyon replied, "if you read it somewhere, I suppose it isn't a story."

irrespective of creed or nationality. Indeed many of my non-Catholic friends, as well as my own people, have, not only repeatedly, but almost habitually, shown me acts of kindness and consideration, and I feel deeply indebted to them all. May God bless and reward them, and fill their hearts with sunshine, as their love brought sunshine into my life. I must not here forget to mention the cordial relation which always existed between the gentlemanly representatives of the local press and myself.

For these reasons in years to come, my thoughts will, unquestionably often go out to those, whose friendship for me made my days here happy indeed. I leave with a "God bless you" for everybody, and shall always be delighted to meet my friends wherever it may be. Times may change, conditions surrounding us may change, and we may change with them; true Christian friendship, however, based on personal worth, and tested by the lapse of years, remains intact; ever old, and ever new.

I sincerely hope that unbounded prosperity will bless the twin cities on the beautiful Rock River, and that they may continue to increase in thrift, progress and population from year to year.

Just like when observing the regular and measured movements of the hands on the face of a watch, we know that it is the ingenious mechanism behind those hands which is, in reality, the effective cause, so I believe, because Christian faith teaches this consoling doctrine, that Divine Providence, with due latitude for the action of that power in man known as free will, which makes him a morally responsible being in the sight of God, permits, directs and governs all the movements on the dial plate of each individual human life.

"There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will." Hamlet.

Nightmare Stories.

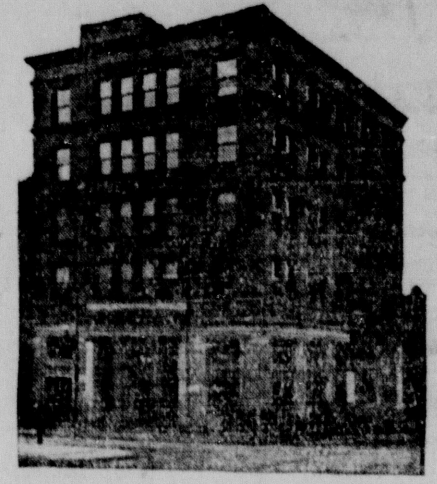

It is always a question whether a literary man should seek to evade indigestion, remarks a writer in the London Chronicle. Did not Mrs. Radcliffe confess that some of the most thrilling episodes in the "Mysteries of Udolpho" came to her in a nightmare consequent upon eating pork chops? May not the "brownies," also, who gave Stevenson the dream inspiration of "Jekyll and Hyde," have been traceable to some similarly injudicious but lucky meal? Personally, I have had after-supper dreams long and circumstantially worked out, which, could I remember them more distinctly in waking moments, might make my fortune as a writer of "thrillers."

The professor looked ruefully at the teacher's report that Tommy had played hookey and destroyed his books.

"My dear," said the professor to his wife, "I am afraid that I must class Thomas as a true instance of aversion to type."

Kent chuckled. "Don't you see that the last thing the sheriff wants to do is arrest anybody?"

"No, I don't."

"Why, he has the body safely buried now. You'll remember that he was in a great hurry to get it buried. Identification is what he dreaded. Danger of identification is now over. If any one should be arrested the body would be exhumed and the danger would return in aggravated form. No; he wants you suspected, not arrested."

"He is certainly getting his wish."

"For the present. Well, I'm off."

"Why don't you move your things from the hotel and stay here with me?" suggested Sedgwick.

"Getting nervous?" inquired Kent.

"It isn't that, but I think I could make you more comfortable."

Kent shook his head. "Thank you, but I don't believe I'd better. When I'm at work on a case I need privacy. No house, not even a man's own, can possibly be so private as a strange hotel."

"Perhaps you're right," admitted the other with a laugh, then lapsing into pronounced gloom for the first time he said, "It seems pretty tough that I should be in all this coil and tangle because a crazy woman happened by mereest chance to make a call on me."

Kent's pipe glowed in the darkness and silence before he replied. Then he delivered himself as follows: "Sedgwick—puff—try—puff—'to forget if you can'—puff—puff—'that stuff about the crazy woman'—puff—puff—puff. 'Forget it?' How should I? Why should I?"

"Because"—puff—"you're absolutely on the"—puff—"wrong track. Good night."

Sundayman's Creek road, turning aside just before it gains the turnpike to the Eyrie hotel to evade a stretch of marsh, travels on wooden stilts across a deep clear pool fed by a spring. The most rigorous constable could have found no basis for protest in the pace maintained across the bridge by a light electric car, carrying a short, slender, elderly man, who peered out with weary eyes into the glory of the July sunshine. At the end of the bridge the car stopped to allow its occupant a better view of a figure prostrate on the brink of the pool. Presently the figure came to the posture of all fours. The face turned upward, and the motorist caught the glint of a monocle. Then the face turned again to its quest.

"Are you looking for something lost?" asked the man in the car.

"I'm hoping to discover the eggs of certain neuropterous insects."

"Ah! You are an entomologist, then."

"To some extent."

"So was I, once—when I had more time. Business has drawn my attention, though never my interest, away from it. I've entirely dropped my reading in the last year. By the way, were you here in time to witness the swarm of antlions last month? Rather unusual, I think."

"No, I missed that. What was the reason?"

"The suddenness of the appearance. You know, Heimund says that—"

The stranger went on at some length. He appeared to be an interested rather than a learned student of the subject. As he talked, sitting on the step of his car, from which he had descended, the other studied him, his quiet but forceful voice, his severely handsome face, with its high brows, harsh nose, and chiseled outlines, from which the eyes looked forth, thoughtful, alert, yet with the gaze of a man in pain. Presently he remarked very courteously.

"If you are going back to the hotel, may I take you along? I am Alexander Blair."

"Thank you. I'll be glad of a lift. My name is Chester Kent."

"Not the Professor Kent of the Ramsay case?"

"The same. You know, Mr. Blair, I've always believed that you had more of a hand in Ramsay's death than I. Now, if you wish to withdraw your offer of a lift—"

"Not at all. A man who has been so abused by the newspapers as I can stand a little plain speaking. For all that, on my word, Professor Kent, I had no hand in sending Ramsay on that dirty business of his."

The scientist considered him thoughtfully. "Well, I believe you," said he shortly, and got into the machine.

CHAPTER IX.

Chester Kent Declines a Job.

"THIS meeting is a fortunate chance for me," said Blair presently.

"Chance?" murmured Kent interrogatively.

The car swerved sharply, but immediately resumed the middle of the road.

"Certainly, chance," said the motorist. "What else could it be?"

"Of course," agreed Kent. "As you say."

"I said fortunate," continued the other. "Because you are, I believe, the very man I want. There is an affair which has been troubling me a good deal. I haven't been able to look into it personally because of the serious illness of my son, who is at my place on Sundayman's creek. But it is in your line, being entomological and perhaps criminal."

"What is it?" asked Kent.

"An inexplicable destruction of our stored woollens by the clothes moth. You may perhaps know that I am president of the Kinsella mills. We've been having a great deal of trouble this spring, and our superintendent believes that some enemy is introducing the pest into our warehouses. Will you take the case?"

"When?"

"Start tonight for Connecticut."

Chester Kent's long fingers went to the lobe on his ear. "Give me until 3 o'clock this afternoon to consider. Can I reach you by telephone?"

"Yes, at Hedgerow house, my place."

"That is how far from here?"

"Fourteen miles. But you need not come there. I could return to the hotel to conclude arrangements. And I think," he added significantly, "that you would find the project a profitable one."

"Doubtless. Are you well acquainted with this part of the country, Mr. Blair?"

"Yes; I've been coming here for years."

"Is there an army post near by?"

"Not within a hundred miles."

"Nor any officers on special detail about?"

"None so far as I know."

Kent produced from his pocket the silver star with the shred of cloth

"Yes, sir. It was inquired for only yesterday by Mr. Blair."

hanging to it. "This may or may not be an important clue to the curious death that occurred here three days ago."

"It looks like the star from the collar of an officer. I should say positively that it was from an army or navy uniform."

"Are you yourself an expert in woolen fabrics, Mr. Blair?"

"I have been."

"Could you tell from that tiny fragment whether or not the whole cloth is all wool?"

Without replying Blair gave the steering handle a quick sweep, and the car drew up before a drug store. He took the star and was gone a few minutes.

"Not all wool," he announced on his return.

"Exit the army or navy officer," remarked Kent.

"Why so?"

"Because regulations require all wool garments—and get them. What is the fabric?"

"A fairly good mixture, from the very elementary chemical test I made."

"Thank you, Mr. Blair. You've eliminated one troublesome hypothesis for me. I'll telephone you before 3 o'clock. Good day."

From the woolen manufacture Chester Kent went direct to the Martindale Center library, where he interviewed the librarian.

"Do you get the agriculture department publications?"

"Yes."

"Have you a pamphlet issued by the bureau of entomology, Heimund on 'The Swarm Phenomenon in Lepidoptera'?"

"Yes, sir. It was inquired for only yesterday by Mr. Blair."

"Ah, yes! He's quite interested in the subject, I believe."

"It must be quite recent, then," said the librarian. "We haven't seen him here for a long time until two days ago, when he came and put in a morning reading on insects."

"So, Mr. Alexander Blair," said Kent, addressing the last fence post on the outskirts of the town, after a thoughtful walk, "that was a fatal break on your part, that mention of Heimund. Amateurs who have wholly dropped a subject since years back don't usually know publications issued only within three months. That casual meeting with me was well carried out, and you called it chance. A very palpably manufactured chance! But why am I worth so much trouble to know? And why does Alexander Blair leave a desperately ill son to arrange an errand for me at this particular time? And is Hedgerow house, fourteen miles distant and possessing just such an electric car as a woman would use in driving round the country, perhaps the place whence came Sedgwick's sweet lady of mystery? Finally, what connection has all this with the body lying in Annalaka burying ground?"

Eliciting no reply from the fence post, Kent returned to the Eyrie, called up Hedgerow house and declined Blair's proposition.

Early that evening Francis Sedgwick came to the hotel.

"Mr. Kent? I'm afraid you can't see him, sir. He isn't in his room," said the clerk.

"Isn't he about the hotel?"

The clerk hesitated. "I ought not to tell you, sir, for it's Mr. Kent's strict orders not to be disturbed, but he's in his special room. Is it anything very important? Any new evidence or something of that sort?"

"That is what I want Mr. Kent to decide."

"In that case I might take the responsibility. But I think I had better take you to him myself."

After the elevator had carried them to the top of its run, they mounted a flight of stairs and walked to a far corner of the building.

"Nobody's been in here since he took it," explained the clerk as they walked. "Turned all the furniture out. Special lock on the door. Some kind of scientific experiments, I suppose. He's very quiet about it."

Having reached the door, he discreetly tapped. No answer came. Somewhat less timidly characterized by his next effort. A growl of surpassing savagery from within was his reward.

"You see, Mr. Sedgwick," said the clerk. Raising his voice he called. "Mr. Kent, I've brought—"

"Get away and go to the devil!" cried a voice from inside in fury.

"What do you mean by—"

"It's I, Kent, Sedgwick. I've got to see you."

There was a silence of some seconds.

"What do you want?" asked Kent at length.

"You told me to come at once if anything turned up."

"So I did," sighed Kent. "Well, chase that infernal bellboy to the stairs, and I'll let you in."

With a wry face the clerk retired. Kent opened the door and his friend squeezed through into a bare room. The walls were hung and the floor was carpeted with white sheets. There was no furniture of any kind unless a narrow mattress in one corner could be so reckoned.

"It's happened!" announced Sedgwick.

"Has it?" said Kent. "Lenn up against the wall and make yourself at home. Man, you're shaking!"

"You'd shake, too," retorted the artist, his voice trembling.

"No; anger doesn't affect me that way. Wait! Now, don't tell me yet. If I'm to have a report it must be from a sane man, not from one in a blind fury. Take time and cool down. What do you think of my room?"

"What's the game?" asked Sedgwick, interested in spite of himself.

"It dates back to our college days. Do you remember that queer freshman man, Berwind?"

"The mind reader? Yes. The poor chap went insane afterward."

"Yes. It was a weak mind, but a singularly receptive one. You know we used to force numbers or playing cards upon his consciousness by merely thinking of them."

"I recollect. His method was to stand gazing at a blank wall. He said the object we were thinking of would rise before him visually against the blankness. Did you ever figure out how he managed to do it?"

"Not exactly."

"For years I've kept a bare white room in my Washington house to do my hard thinking in. When your affair promised to become difficult for me I rigged up this spot. And I'm trying to see things against the walls."

"Any particular kind of things?"

Kent produced the silver star from his pocket and told of its discovery.

"Sedgwick, what was it your visitor said to you about Jupiter?"

"She didn't mention Jupiter."

"No, of course not. Not by name. But what was it she said about the planet that she pointed out over the sea?"

"Oh, was that Jupiter? How did you know?"

"Looked last night, of course," said Kent impatiently. "There's no other planet conspicuous over the sea at that hour from where you stood. That's not important, at least not now. What did she say?"

"Oh, some sort about daring to follow her star and find happiness and that perhaps it might lead me to glory or something."

A kind of snort came from Kent.

"Where have my brains been?" he cried. He thrust the bit of embroidery back into his pocket. Then with an abrupt change of tone:

"Well, is your temper in hand?"

"For the present."

"Tell me about it, then."

"You remember the picture of the face?" said Sedgwick, with an effort.

"Nobody would easily forget it."

"I've been doing another portrait from the sketches. It was on opaque glass, an experimental medium that I've worked on some. Late this afternoon I went out, leaving the glass sheet, backed against a light board, on my easel. The door was locked with a heavy spring. There's no possible access by the window. At somebody came in and smashed my picture to fragments. If I can find that man, Kent, I'll kill him!"

Kent glanced at the artist's long, strong hands. They were clenched on his knees. The fingers were bloodless. "I believe you would," said the scientist, with conviction. "You mustn't know. No luxuries at present. Anything else in your place damaged?"

"Not that I noticed. But I didn't pay much attention to anything else. I came here direct to find you."

"That's right. Well, I'm with you for the Nook."

Locking his curious room after him, Kent led the way to the hotel lobby, where he stopped only long enough to send some telegrams. The sun was still a few minutes short of its setting when he and his companion emerged from the hotel. Kent at once broke into a trot.

CHAPTER X.
The Invasion.

SUCH ruin as had been wrought in Sedgwick's studio was strictly localized. The easel lay on the floor, with its rear leg crumpled. Around it were scattered the fragments of the glass upon which the painter had set his labor of love. A high old fashioned chair faced the wreckage. On its peak was hung a traveling cap. Lopping across the back sprawled a Norfolk jacket belonging to Sedgwick. Chester Kent lifted the coat and after a swift survey let it drop.

"Did you leave that there?" he asked.

"I hung it across the back of the chair," answered Sedgwick.

"North window closed?"

"Yes, as you see it now."

"And west one open?"

"Nothing has been changed, I tell you, except this," Sedgwick's hand, outstretched toward the destroyed portrait, condensed itself involuntarily into a knotted fist.

Sedgwick took the Norfolk jacket from the chair. "Why, there's a hole through it!" he exclaimed.

"Exactly. The path of the invader."

"A bullet!"

"Right again. Instead of murdering, as you pine to do, you've been murdered. That the picture was destroyed is merely a bit of ill fortune. That you weren't inside the coat when the bullet went through it and cut the prop from your easel is a bit of the other kind. Hang up the coat, please."

Sedgwick obeyed.

"There," said Kent, viewing the result from the window. "At a distance of, say a quarter of a mile, that arrangement of coat and cap would look uncommonly like a man sitting in a chair before his work. At least I should think so. And yonder thicket on the hillside," he added, looking out of the window again. "Is just about that distance and seems to be the only spot in sight giving a straight range. Suppose we run up there."

Sound as was his condition Sedgwick was panting when he brought up at the spot some yards behind his long limbed leader. As the scientist had surmised, the arrangement of coat and cap in the studio presented at that distance an excellent simulacrum of the rear view of a man lounging in a chair. Bidding the artist stay outside the house, Kent entered on hands and knees and made extended exploration.

After a few moments the sound of low lugubrious whistling was heard from the trees, and presently the musician emerged leading himself by the lobe of his ear.

"Evidently you've found something," commented Sedgwick.

"I'm satisfied that some one fired a shot from here. The marksman—a good one—saw you, as he supposed, jerk to the shot as if with a bullet through you and went away satisfied."

"Leaving no trace behind him," added Sedgwick.

"No trace that is tangible. There he flies the evidence."

"Of course you don't expect me to follow that."

"Why not? Look at the ground in the thicket."

"What is there to be seen there, since you've said there are no marks?"

"The soil is very soft."

"Yes; there's a spring just back of us."

"Yet there's not a footprint discernible on it."

"I've got that part of the lesson by heart, I think."

"Use your brain on it, then. Some one designing to make you his target has been in this thicket; been and gone and left the place trackless. That some one was a keen, soft footed woodsman. Putting it in words of one syllable, I should say he probably had the racial instinct of the hunt. Does that flush any idea from your brain?"

"Racial instinct? Gansett Jim?" said Sedgwick.

"Exactly. If I had found tracks all over the place, I should have known it wasn't he. Finding nothing, I was naturally pleased."

"That's more than I am," retorted the other. "I suppose he's likely to resume his gunnery at any time."

"Unless we can discourage him, as I expect we can."

"By having him arrested?"

"Difficulties might be put in my way. Sheriff Len Schlager and the half breed are in some sort of loose partnership in this affair, as you know. Gansett Jim honestly thinks that you had a hand in the Lonesome Cove murder, as he believes it to be. It isn't impossible that the sheriff has subtly egged him on to kill you in revenge. You're the suspect, and if you were put out of the way every one would believe you the murderer. There would be a perfunctory investigation, the whole thing would be hushed up and the body in Annalaka churchyard would rest in peace—presumably a profitable peace for the sheriff."

"Flat out, Kent, do you know who the dead woman is?"

"Flat out, I don't. But I've a shrewd guess that I'll find out before long."

"From Gansett Jim?"

"No hope there. He's an Indian. What I'm going to see him about now is your safety."

"Now? Where do you expect to find him?"

"I've been doing another portrait from the sketches. It was on opaque glass, an experimental medium that I've worked on some. Late this afternoon I went out, leaving the glass sheet, backed against a light board, on my easel. The door was locked with a heavy spring. There's no possible access by the window. CALENDAR EVENTS FOR COMING WEEK

Friday.

Dorothy Chapter O. E. S.—Masonic Hall.

Dance at Illini Hall.

The Fourth of July will be appropriately observed with a dancing party at Illini hall in Grand Detour tomorrow evening. Dr. Hewitt will be out from Chicago to superintend the affair and everything will be done to make the occasion one of the most enjoyable ever given at this popular resort. A new piano has been installed in the pavilion for the benefit of the patrons and the entire place put in readiness to accommodate the dancers. Smith's orchestra will furnish the music.

Dixon Boy Weds.

Dixon people will be greatly surprised to learn of the marriage of Mr. Arthur Huggins of this city to Miss Grace Kinney of Muscatine, Iowa. The wedding took place on Monday evening, at 8 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage, in Rock Island. The couple were unattended and left Tuesday for this city where they have been visiting with Mr. Huggins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Huggins. Yesterday they left for Chicago where they will make an extended visit with relatives there.

Mr. Huggins is well known in this city and he and his bride will receive a hearty welcome by Dixon friends. Mr. Huggins is employed as a private detective with a Chicago firm and is doing very nicely.

Reception for Pastor.

A reception will be given Rev. A. J. Holland and wife in the parlors of the Presbyterian church on Monday evening, July 6th. All members of the church and congregation are most cordially invited.

At Arrington Home.

Mrs. Lillie Durlinger Hulce and little daughter, Frances, are visiting at the A. P. Arrington home.

Visiting Here.

Mrs. E. H. Crabtree and two sons of Denver, Col., who have been spending the past month in Sterling with friends, came to Dixon yesterday where they will be entertained at the homes of relatives and friends.

House Party.

Miss Alta Vail will entertain with a house party, at her home, 814 Chula Vista Avenue, the latter part of next week. Her guests will be Misses Gladys Horton of Beardstown Ill., Orva Bensen of Rochelle, Marie Rasmussen and Ethel Rattray of Chicago, and Carolyn Lee of West Virginia, all of whom were school mates of Miss Vail at the Wheaton college this year. On July 11th, Miss Vail will give a musical in honor of the guests of her week-end party.

At Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coc, wife and son of West Pullman, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson and family and Ned Coc of this city, are greatly enjoying camp life this week at the Ketchen and Weyant cottage up the river.

Taylor-Grant.

The first of July has made her entrance amid the perfumes of Blossoms and to the triumphal strains of the wedding march.

A wedding that will be of much interest locally was solemnized last evening at the St. Paul's Lutheran Parsonage, when Rev. F. D. Altman united Mr. Elmer W. Grant and Miss Fannie Taylor. The wedding was a quiet one and they were attended by Mr. Arnold B. Parson only.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Taylor of Port Byron and well known in this city, having a host of friends who will proffer to her their best wishes. She was prettily gowned in a shadow lace dress and carried a shower bouquet of Brides Roses.

Elmer Grant is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Grant of this city and is an enterprising young business man here, with prosperity smiling kindly upon him. His friends and associates will extend their best wishes for his future life.

The wedding came as a complete surprise to their friends and parents and until this morning, the majority were still unaware of last evening's ceremony. The bride and groom will

WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

May Find Help in This Letter.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When through neglect or overwork I get run down and my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid, always tired feeling. I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It is truly a great blessing to women, and I cannot speak too highly of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ANNIE CAMERON, R.F.D., No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

Another Sufferer Relieved.

Hebron, Me.—"Before taking your remedies I was all run down, discouraged and had female weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash, and find today that I am an entirely new woman, ready and willing to do my housework now, where before taking your medicine it was a dread. I try to impress upon the minds of all ailing women I meet, the benefits they can derive from your medicines."—Mrs. CHARLES ROWE, R.F.D., No. 1, Hebron, Maine.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

FAMILY THEATRE

The new bill now playing at The Family is as pleasing as it is novel. The Great Harbans, roller skaters are, without any exceptions, the greatest act of this kind ever seen in the theatre. Their act consists of all manner of fancy and trick skating, as all the fancy dances, which are executed in a manner that is most astounding.

The Lyric Quartette, four men, who sing well and have a pleasing repertoire of selections, delighted their hearers and were most enthusiastically encored.

Pictures tonight are The Antique Engagement Ring in two reels and The Seligettes.

HARVEY CASE CONTINUED.

The hearing of James Harvey, who was arrested as a result of charged brutal treatment toward Mrs. Julia Cabina at the cement works recently, which was to have been held before Magistrate Kent, has been continued until Saturday, July 11.

WHEN THE EYES NEED AID

Nature's Methods of Warning Are Many and They Should Not Be Long Disregarded.

Symptoms of eye strain are pain in the temple, pain in the back of the head and neck, red eyelids and inability to see at a great distance or to read long at a time. The eyes become tired and vision blurred; there is strabismus or cast in the eye and a tendency to avoid light. The eyes are partly closed; there are twitchings of the lids, sick headache and dizziness. It brings on neuralgia and headache that medicines fail to cure.

Nearly every condition recited above, if brought about by defective vision or an abnormal state of the ocular muscles, can be relieved by glasses, says a writer in the "Family Doctor." The fitting of glasses is, at times, a very difficult task, and should be entrusted only to one who thoroughly understands the different defects and diseases of the eye, and is skilful with the appliances used for the scientific selection of proper lenses.

FOR A SANE FOURTH.
Tomorrow is the Fourth of July, the anniversary of the declaration of American independence, and the greatest American holiday. It is a day when everyone should be privileged to have a good time, though not at the expense of life and health.

The kiddies will have to be watched. It will be a day of peril for the little boys and girls and many homes over the land will be cast into the deepest sorrow before evening falls. We can only hope that it will not be in this community.

The mind of a child knows no terror for the real perils. The little feet will innocently lead the way into the gravest danger and the little hands will clutch gleefully at the sputtering red things that contain such a force for destruction.

The cannon cracker fuse that has "gone out" is one of the most treacherous menaces and even the smaller firecrackers are capable of taking off baby fingers or blasting away the eyesight. Lighted punk, sparks from Roman candles and many other things may set fire to the clothing of the child.

The father and mother who love the little one will keep a vigilant eye open tomorrow. If they don't the cost may be terrible.

THE MERCHANTS' PICNIC.
Merchants' Picnic day in Dixon, or, to be more specific, in Lowell park, should equal the last Fourth of July celebration. In many ways the idea is a superior one, for more people get the kind of a day that will do them the most good.

The merchants of Dixon will on that day entertain thousands of people, residents of Dixon and all the countryside, and you can depend upon it, they will fill the position of hosts in the proper kind of style.

The last Merchants' picnic held at Lowell park was a great success, but for some reason the affair did not become annual. We hope that this one will be so successful that every summer will see at least one day when all of Dixon casts dull cares aside and joins in a jolly great big family picnic.

There will be lots of fun and plenty of thrills, and Merchants' Picnic day at Lowell park this year will be better than ever before.

MAY JOHNNY COME MARCHING HOME.
Let us hope that Johnny will be all in one piece when the din of battle dies out and the smoke rolls away tomorrow eve. May his fingers be all there and in working order. May his hair be on his head and his eyes working not singly, but as a pair. Keep the blank pistol away from him and don't let him play with the boy who has one.

The race horses at the Amboy Fair won't be working any harder nor faster than the bunch of Lee county politicians will be on the day of the Fourth in Amboy.

Iowa newspapers are taking up the cudgel against the primary election in their state. They say their present primary law is a distinct and remarkable fizzle and that the party convention is the place to make the nominations. Evidently they haven't got the right kind of a primary.

Poor Bryan! Now that he has got his cake and is eating it he is a little disappointed. The realization is not half the fun of anticipation.

Her Busy Day
BY WALT MASON
The British matron used to sit in gracious dignity, and knit, and patch her husband's duds; with earnest zeal she used to make the bread, the doughnuts and the cake, and boil the luscious spuds. But times have changed; now, fiery-eyed, she lets her household duties slide, and treads her martial path; and in that land of good roast beef, the men are full of fear and grief, and shaken by her wrath. She says that she will have the vote, if she must set the isle afloat, to drift to Kingdom Come; she burns cathedral, hall and school, and in her dainty reticule she packs a deadly bomb. She pokes her one price parasol through costly paintings on the wall of this or that museum; she chases statesmen here and there, until they plunge, in their despair, into the sobbing sea. The king's afraid to take a walk, lest some bold matron's club may knock his crown across the street; he shivers on his royal throne, and in her bower, depressed, alone, Queen Mary has cold feet. The judges send the girls to jail, and take, in finest, their modest kale, but little does it help; from Lunnun Town to John o' Groat's, the women, for their precious votes, kyoodle, shriek and yelp. So let us glad and thankful be that in this country of the free, the women are more wise; in gentlemanly style they fight, that they may gain their sacred right, the ballot, bless their eyes!

METHOD IN HIS TEACHING
Agassiz, as a Preceptor, Had His Own Way of Doing Things, and He Got Results.
A student enrolled in Agassiz's class. For several days Agassiz paid no attention to him whatever. At length, tired of standing around idle, the student asked Agassiz to give him something to do. Agassiz's reply was to hand him a herring and to say, "Study this." The student was hewildered, but set about "studying"
it. The next day Agassiz asked him what he had learned about that herring. The student replied that it had two eyes, so many fins, and such and such markings.
"No, no!" Agassiz cried. "Study it more. Those things are not important."
The next day and the next the experience was repeated. The fourth day Agassiz again demanded information about the now rotting specimen.
In a desperate attempt at humor the student replied, "Well, it's the same on both sides."
"That's it!" shouted Agassiz. "That's it! A starfish isn't the same on both sides, an oyster isn't, thousands of specimens of the sea are not. When you find one that is, you've found a starting point in a new stage in the evolution of life."
Obviously, that student learned more from that one lesson about the scientific method of study than he would have learned in a year's reading and lectures. The text books would have taught him the facts; Agassiz taught him the method of learning all facts.—World's Work.

Wisdom From Inexperience.
Mr. Brown met Mr. Jones on the street.
"Any news, Brown?" asked Jones.
"Nothing special. I've just been reading the Sunday paper. And I find one peculiar thing in it that may be news to you."
"What is it?"
"The Sunday paper says that women in ancient Egypt used to act as they pleased, live as they pleased and dress as they pleased without regard to what the men thought. Lucky we don't live in those times, what?"
"Mr. Brown, are you married?"
"What has that got to do with it?
As a matter of fact, I'm not."
"I thought not."—Cleveland Plain

Des Moines, Ia., July 2.—Three laws passed by the Thirty-fifth general assembly became effective in Iowa. They were the workmen's compensation and employers' liability measure, the state insurance commissioner act and the teachers' institute law.

SALEM VICTIMS NEED AID
Relief Committee Renew Appeals For Funds to Care For Fire Victims.
Salem, Mass., July 2.—Both the American Red Cross and the state relief committee emphasized the need of more funds for caring for the destitute fire victims.
The state relief committee voted to renege the appeal for financial assistance made last week, and right.

FOR SALE
Corn, Clover and Blue Grass Farms. A safe general farming country. No crop failures ever known. We have gently rolling and nearly level up-land farms; also bottom lands with deep black soil, nearly all dredged and ready for tile drainage. It will pay any prospective land buyer to investigate our proposition.
Write for state soil map and advertising matter free.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF
Which is Better—Try an Experiment or Profit by a Dixon Citizen's Experience Something new is an experiment. Must be proved to be as represented.
The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit. But the endorsement of friends is. Now supposing you had had luck. Now supposing you had a bad back, a lame, weak, or aching one. Would you experiment with it? You will read so many so-called cures, endorsed by strangers from far away places.
It's different when the endorsement comes from home.
Easy to prove local testimony.
Read this Dixon case:
J. B. Clark, 722 Highland Ave., Dixon, says: "I had kidney complaint and backache and the doctors seemed unable to do anything for me. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, and got a supply at Leake Bros' Drug store. They cured me and I haven't had any serious trouble since. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills worthy of the highest praise and I gladly confirm the endorsement I gave them some years ago."

Mr. Clark is only one of many Dixon people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Clark had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. PLAIN LARCENY IS BANK CHARGE
La Salle Street Bank Accused of Stealing $75,000.
SUBSIDIARY BANK IS ACCUSER

Notes Sent Tottering Institution by Illinois State Bank to Be Collected Sold to Raise Cash and Halt Run, Accusation—Prosecutor Says Case Is Complete.

Chicago, July 3.—Plain larceny is to be the charge on which the looters of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank are to be prosecuted and the evidence on which the prosecution will rest has to do with the "misappropriation" of $75,000 worth of securities accompanying notes left at the bank for collection.

The Illinois State bank complained to State's Attorney Macley Hoyne yesterday that bonds and notes it owned valued at $75,000 had been stolen by those in charge of the La Salle street institution and pledged as security for a loan to help stem the run that finally wrecked the bank.

"Case Proves Itself"—Hoyne.

The state's attorney told representatives of the bank that they possessed exactly the evidence he wanted to prosecute the looters that the case "proved itself" and that they would be taken before the special grand jury.

The Illinois State bank held the note of John Cudahy for $50,000 and more than ample security to protect the loan. It also held the note of the Central Locomotive company for $25,000 and good paper to secure the note.

The cashier of the Illinois State sent the notes to the La Salle Street bank for collection and sent with them the collateral, to be returned to Cudahy and the locomotive company when the notes were paid.

Securities Appropriated.

Instead of collecting the notes the La Salle Street bank laid them away and appropriated the securities. It was the middle of May when the rush that was to ruin C. B. Munday and William Lorimer was reaching its height. The La Salle Street bank officials grasped the securities as a life saver.

They packed this paper with about $75,000 worth of other paper and sent it to Boston. The International Trust bank of Boston advanced them $100,000 on their note, secured by this bundle of securities.

The note was dated May 15 and was for sixty days. It will be due July 15.

SENSATIONAL CHARGE AGAINST RICH WIDOW
Promise to Remarry First Husband When Second Died.

St. Louis, Mo., July 3.—Remarkable charges were made against Mrs. Grace A. Leathe in regard to her relations with her divorced husband, James R. Henry of Indianapolis, by William Irvine Edwards, a former fiscal agent for Mrs. Leathe, in a suit against her before Justice of the Peace Luce here.

Mrs. Leathe is known as one of the wealthiest women in St. Louis. She obtained a divorce from Henry late in 1903 and less than two months later she was married to Samuel H. Leathe, an elderly St. Louis millionaire. The suit for divorce was not contested.

Edwards, in his testimony, said he had received letters from Mrs. Leathe in which she said she had written Henry "hundreds of letters" after her marriage to Leathe and that she had promised to marry Henry again when Leathe died. Edwards said Mrs. Leathe was anxious to recover this correspondence with Henry and offered him (Edwards) $25,000 if he would get it for her.

Edwards charged that several times she reminded him that in one of the letters to Henry, written when Leathe was alive, she had promised to marry Henry again.

MICHIGAN FEARS JAPANESE
Invasion of Oriental Alien Hands May Bring an Anti-Foreign Bill.
Lansing, Mich., July 3.—The announcement that 400 Japanese laborers from California are coming to Alger county has started anti-alien law agitation here, and it is reported an attempt will be made at the next session of the legislature to enact an anti-alien law similar to that in California.

The Japanese will engage in vegetable farming when they arrive in Alger county.

Lake Liner Goes Ashore.
Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 3.—The Canadian Pacific railway officers in this city received word that the Canadian Pacific steamer Assiniboia, with 160 passengers on board, has gone ashore in the Georgian bay. The passengers are all safe.

"DIXON"
THE LIGHT RUNNING, HEAVY DUTY LAWN MOWER.
Guaranteed Equal to the Best Made.
Made in Dixon. Boost! It is Dixon. Every lawn in Dixon should have a mower on it. Your dealer should have them. If he has not got them call us and we will supply you.
We wish to draw your attention to a few of the improvements in the Dixon Lawn Mower over all other makes.
First, to the floating bed knife bar which is swiveled on the rod that ties the back end of the mower securely together, and, with the other tie rod at the front makes the most rigid frame to be found in lawn mowers.
You will notice at each back corner of the bed knife a compression spring. These press the cutting edge of the bed knife up against the reel, or revolving knife, always adjusting itself.
We make the Dixon with a thrust ball bearing which is the same as is used in automobiles, making it the best.
The knives throughout are crucible steel. The lower bed knife is crucible lip steel.
The Dixon Mower will cut heavy grass without raising the handle and without lifting up behind and choking.

 when he received J. Pierpont Morgan of New York for a conference at the White House. While Mr. Morgan himself requested the interview, at which it was understood general busitry were discussed, the president himself invited Henry Ford, the auto manufacturer, to call on him next week, and the indications are that other leading business men of the country will soon have an opportunity to confer with the president.

It is officially announced at the White House that next Wednesday noon the president will receive a delegation from the Chicago Association of Commerce, which desires to confer with him concerning anti-trust legislation. The delegation will be composed of representatives of the John V. Farwell company, Marshall
 Field & Co., Carson, Pirie, Scott &
 Co., Sprague, Warner & Co., the Cuddaby Packing company, Reid, Murdoch & Co., and others.

The understanding at the White House is that this delegation will bring a well digested anti-trust program for the consideration of the president and congress. The engagement for the conference was made through E. D.
 Hulbert of Chicago.

"President Cordial," Says Morgan.
 Mr. Morgan and President Wilson had nearly an hour's talk. White-House officials said the conference had been just a friendly discussion of the general subject of business conditions. Mr. Morgan refused to disclose what had taken place.

"There is absolutely nothing I can say," said he.

Wilson Says Talk Was General.

President Wilson told inquirers later that in his talk with Mr. Morgan business conditions generally had been discussed and that Mr. Morgan had expressed no opinion of whether business was good or bad. He added that he had known Mr. Morgan a long time and that their talk was largely reminiscent.

Speaking of business conditions generally, the president said that the attitude of business men seemed to be increasingly in favor of the administration's trust plans. In all of his correspondence with business men, he added, he had heard of no specific objection to the anti-trust program.

JONES AND WARBURG TO TELL OF TRUSTS

Senate Committee Probably Will Favor Nominations.

Washington, July 3.—Senate committee on banking and currency agreed to make a favorable report on three of the president's nominations for the federal reserve board—Adolph
 C. Miller of California, Charles S.
 Hamlin of Massachusetts and W. P.
 G. Harding of Alabama.

The committee was not able to agree on a favorable report on Paul M.
 Warburg of Kuhn, Loeb & Company and Thomas D. Jones, but instead it was decided to call Mr. Jones before the committee next Monday to question him concerning his connection with the International Harvester company as a director. Mr. Warburg will be called later. Meanwhile action on the two nominations will be suspended.

Senators Nelson of Minnesota and Britton of Kansas are the principal objectors to the two nominees. It is believed, however, that ultimately the committee will report favorably on both the Jones and Warburg nominations.

WINONA ASSEMBLY IN COURT

Involuntary Petition in Bankruptcy Against Presbyterian Body.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—Efforts of creditors of the Winona assembly to effect a settlement of the financial difficulties of the institution resulted in the filing of a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against the assembly in the federal court here. This threatens to throw the large Presbyterian church property at Winona, Ind., into the hands of a receiver.

The petition was filed on behalf of four of the 537 creditors, who have claims against the assembly of about $91,000. The total indebtedness is $800,000.
